Plano plastic storage container for stones

Posted by iamtwon - 25 Oct 2012 20:34

If you're on a budget, check this out for stone storage. I got the idea from JDavis882's video, "Wicked Edge: Implement Organization". I just did some hunting for the exact one he had, and voila.

www.amazon.com/Plano-23700-01-Stowaway-A...words=Plano+23700-01

Thanks JDavis!

==========

Re: Plano plastic storage container for stones

Posted by cbwx34 - 26 Oct 2012 05:27

Nice... Always like to see storage ideas. I'm guessing the "too small..." area could be used for other stuff like scopes, pastes, misc. tools, etc.?

I also noticed they have organizer racks (for the serious stone collector).

Thanks!

==========

Re: Plano plastic storage container for stones

Posted by mark76 - 26 Oct 2012 07:00

Some more cases (including a larger Plano box):

www.wickededgeusa.com/index.php?option=c...id=840&Itemid=63

www.wickededgeusa.com/index.php?option=c...3&Itemid=63#2593

==========

Re: Plano plastic storage container for stones
Posted by iamtwon - 26 Oct 2012 14:16

Ya, you could fit odds and ends in the "too small..." slots. I'll probably have one full of stones and one full of strops before it's all over Mark, I really like your station, very nice that you explained everything in your setup. I think I found your Plano tackle box, too.

www.amazon.com/Plano-3744-FlipSider-Tack...1278905&sr=1-125

==========

Re: Plano plastic storage container for stones
Posted by FredHermann - 29 Oct 2012 13:33

I've seen a Plano stacker that holds 4 of the 3700 size on Amazon for about 30.00.

But before I get that much storage for my sharpner, I'll need to win a lottery for all the stones etc...that would be lots of storage. LOTS.

==========

Re: Plano plastic storage container for stones
Posted by ChrisTuttle - 31 Oct 2012 19:41

Here is my plano setup.

I couldn't figure out how to cut the foam cleanly until I tried a cleaver I had just sharpened.

Cut it like butter. My neighbor had the foam, he's a Refuse Technician and has lots of cool finds.

One box for stones and one for strops, light, arms and other equipment

I keep a pouch of desiccant in each to keep them dry.

==========

Re: Plano plastic storage container for stones
Posted by cbwx34 - 01 Nov 2012 07:31

Welcome to the forum!

Thanks for adding to the storage ideas!

==========

Re: Plano plastic storage container for stones
Posted by mark76 - 01 Nov 2012 08:16

Welcome Chris!

Really nice storage solution!

==========

Re: Plano plastic storage container for stones
Posted by Geocyclist - 18 Dec 2012 22:20

I got one of these Plano's today from Amazon. For $6 I am very pleased. The Chosera's fit perfectly. I will get 2 more of these. May go hight speed later with a Pelican case or something for the WE+Base, but for now having some storage with protection for the stones is the first priority.

iamtwon wrote:

If you're on a budget, check this out for stone storage. I got the idea from JDavis882's video, "Wicked Edge: Implement Organization". I just did some hunting for the exact one he had, and voila. Also worth noting that Choseras and Nortons may not fit 2 per slot.

www.amazon.com/Plano-23700-01-Stowaway-A...words=Plano+23700-01

Thanks JDavis!

==========