So Leo,

Is this where I put the quote:

"That is the sort of thing up with which I will not put"?

Hi Mike

If you are Winston Churchill you can say almost anything and people will quote you. I never understood what people have against dangling a participle on occasion! LOL!

_____

At a party Winston was well into his cups. Lady Astor was critical and said so.

"Winston you are drunk!"

Winston replied, " Madame you are ugly, but in the morning I will be sober."

Lady Astor said indignantly," Winston if you were my husband, I would poison your tea!"

Winston replied merrily," Madame, if I were your husband, I would drink it!"

Hee,hee,hee! Nice play on words Gary!

Bertrand is one of my heroes, although my math skills stink, I at least could follow his philosophical stuff. Philosophy and Ancient History of the Middle East were my majors at university, so Bertrand for the one and Henri Frankfort for the other.
